Research in refereeing and umpiring

Sport referees and umpires are central to the most popular pastimes on the planet, but almost every scholarly article on refereeing and umpiring makes some comment about a lack of existing research into the area, and the need to do more.

Referee and Umpire Bibliography (RUB) is intended to help researchers and others interested in the science and art of refereeing and umpiring. Use of RUB is free and open to the public. You are encouraged to link your own site to the RUB.

The bibliography includes links to scholarly articles and reports available online. Some are free, full-text articles, some link to an abstract summary or subscription only journal.

Feedback and contributions

The bibliography will become more useful as it grows, so please send contributions. Send feedback, suggestions and contributions to Peter Simmons at psimmons@csu.edu.au

Fair use of the bibliography

You CAN print out or copy sections of RUB for use in a university course or as a handout, providing that authorship is acknowledged, preferably through the inclusion of a statement about the source of the document. Sections of RUB already include such a statement, but it should read as follows;

Excerpted from Referee and Umpire Bibliography (RUB) of research and evidence concerning referees and umpires. Compiled by Peter Simmons, 2009, Bathurst, Australia. psimmons@csu.edu.au Home URL: http://www.csu.edu.au/faculty/arts/commun/staff/peter_simmons.html

You CAN link to the bibliography web site without asking.
