

Provocative, Practical and Relevant Education Ideas

Presenter: Sharan Burrow

The Murray School of Education at Charles Sturt University, Albury-Wodonga campus is proud to host the Bob Meyenn Annual Education Lecture.

Named after the eminent educator, Professor Bob Meyenn, former Dean of the Faculty of Education at Charles Sturt University, the annual lecture is designed to bring to the border region highly esteemed thinkers to share their provocative, practical and relevant ideas.

The lecture will be presented by Sharan Burrow, President of the Australian Council of Trade Unions, on Thursday, April 23, 2009 at Henry Nowik Auditorium, Albury Campus, Charles Sturt University (map on reverse) commencing at 7.30pm. Light refreshments will be served following the lecture.

Lecture Topic: Education, Industrial Relations and a Low Carbon Future.

Australian education institutions are well-placed to deepen work force planning and frame skills development to meet the challenges facing Australia. We must position ourselves to ensure we have the education and skills to capture a half trillion dollar share of a three trillion dollar global green industry.

The challenge is to educate generations of young people with the skills and know-how to effect our participation, and deepen our competitive advantage, in a low carbon future. We can re-skill workers to ensure they can design, manufacture and operate new technologies.

Our universities and colleges, business and unions, must drive demand for research and development and for an intensity of skills effort like never before and government must stand ready to partner these plans. Our workplaces must meet the industrial challenges and changes this new economy requires.
