

CONTENTS

---

Seminar introduction: Applying research practice in information and library studies

References

* Matching users with information: Charles Sturt University's research focus in library and information management

Introduction

The research area

Current research: Overview of activities and interests

Case studies

The 'Matching users with information' research in the national and international context

Conclusion

References

Discussion

* Information literacy research: the consolidation of a theme

Introduction

Current information literacy research

IL in CITI

What appears to be the current state of the IL research territory?

What is the way forward for our research group in CITI?

References

Discussion

* Research applications in information management: The case of informetric research in Australia

Introduction

Informetrics: What is it?

Research challenges in LIS: The informetric approach

Conclusion

References

Discussion

* Information management research in a multidisciplinary context

Introduction

Reasons for multidisciplinary approaches

Monash projects

Common philosophies and methods

International Olympic Committee (IOC) project

Information seeking by online investors

Online learning repository

Conclusion

References

Discussion

FINALE

- * Papers presented at the seminar. These have been accepted subject to a double blind refereeing process and subsequent revision.