Master of Leadership and Management (Policing and Security) Articulated Set includes:

Master of Leadership and Management (Policing and Security)
Graduate Diploma of Leadership and Management (Policing and Security)
Graduate Certificate in Leadership and Management (Policing and Security)

The Master of Leadership and Management (Policing) develops students' high level professional practice by examining challenges in contemporary executive leadership in national and international policing and related regulatory professions, in the context of its theoretical, conceptual and empirical foundations. Successfully completing this course will prepare graduates to contribute to theory and research as well as to professional practice. Through the completion of this course, students will also develop broader graduate attributes articulated by CSU so that they can contribute more fully to the community and their profession.

The Graduate Diploma of Leadership and Management (Policing and Security)is designed to meet the educational needs and enhance the skills of experienced investigators, and to help prepare investigators for management roles.The course provides university recognition for professional training and university accredited programs that are relevant and designed in collaboration with the industry.

The Graduate Certificate in Leadership and Management (Policing and Security) program further develops students' high-level professional practice by analysing the challenges of contemporary executive leadership, and equipping graduates with the skills to meet them. The Graduate Certificate in Leadership and Management (Policing and Security) examines national and international policing and related regulatory professions in the context of its theoretical, conceptual and empirical foundations.
