Bachelor of Islamic Studies Articulated Set includes:

Bachelor of Islamic Studies
Associate Degree in Islamic Studies [Exit Point Only]
Diploma of Islamic Studies [Exit Point Only]

The Bachelor of Islamic Studies provides students with an advanced knowledge of Islam which includes a highly developed comprehension of the theological, jurisprudential, historical, contemporary and spiritual aspects of Islam. Islamic sciences are studied from both a classical and contemporary perspective and students graduate with the ability to write in Arabic and read from the religious texts in Arabic, in addition to an understanding of Arabic grammar and vocabulary. The course prepares students with an advanced insight of the Islamic faith which can prove beneficial for further academic study, or for a range of professions such as teachers, public servants, companies or any individual or institution dealing with Muslims regularly.

The Associate Degree in Islamic Studies provides students with an intermediate knowledge in the study of Islam which includes an intermediate comprehension of the social, historic, practical, contemporary and spiritual aspects of Islam for University study. The course prepares students with an encompassing intermediate knowledge of Islam in theology, history, Islamic practice and contemporary issues, in addition to an intermediate understanding of the Arabic language and an introductory understanding of Arabic grammar and vocabulary, which can prove beneficial to prepare students for further academic study, or for a range of professions such as teachers, public servants, companies or any individual or institution dealing with Muslims regularly.

The Diploma of Islamic Studies provides students with an introductory level of knowledge in the study of Islam. The students will study subjects which will give them a basic understanding of the social, historic, practical, contemporary and spiritual aspects of Islam. The course aims to prepare undergraduate students for further academic study or to provide them with an introductory understanding of the Islamic faith which can benefit them in various professions.

The course includes the following awards:

Associate Degree in Islamic Studies AssocDegIslStud

Bachelor of Islamic Studies BIslStud

Diploma of Islamic Studies DipIslStud   2

Enrolment Pattern

There is a degree of flexibility in the course structure, suitable to the large number of part time and distance education enrolments. Students are encouraged to complete the Core subjects first as they serve as a foundation to the discipline. Students will structure their progress through the degree according to the requirements in the degree and to availability of subjects in a given session.
Students must ensure that they meet the Exit Point award structure if they choose to exit with their chosen qualification before completion of the Bachelors program.
