

AUSTRALIAN INSTITUTE OF AGRICULTURAL SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY
(AIAST)

AIAST International Seminar:

8.30 am, Wednesday 27 July 2011

Conference Room, DPI Wagga Wagga Agricultural Institute
Agriculture Precinct, Charles Sturt University, Wagga Wagga
In association with the EH Graham Centre for Agricultural Innovation

“The Importance of Irrigated Agriculture to Global Food Security”

Professor Kenneth G. Cassman

Heuermann Professor of Agronomy, and
Chair, Independent Science and Partnership Council of the CGIAR
University of Nebraska, Lincoln
The United States of America

Ken Cassman is a world-leading research agronomist from the USA, having worked in California, Brazil, IRRI (The Philippines), and Nebraska, on a wide range of crop issues. His interests remain broad, and nowadays include world food security. He has published widely on the subject, and as the first Chair of the new Independent Science and Partnership Council of the Consultative Group for International Agricultural Research, he is eminently suited to discuss this vital challenge.

The seminar is open to interested professionals, students and the general public, and we encourage your attendance. This event is organised by the ACT/Southern NSW Division of the Australian Institute of Agricultural Science and Technology.

For more information, please contact:

Professor Len Wade

02 6933 2523 (direct)

02 6933 2864 (Jenny)

lwade@csu.edu.au

Emeritis Professor Ted Wolfe

02 6922 4347 (direct)

02 6938 1806 (Toni)

twolfe@csu.edu.au